STRIKERS MILITARY SYSTEM EXPOSED ENGLISH CHANNEL FLYER FALLS SHORT

700 FILIPINOS ON THE WAY

By the steamer Korea, which arrived here last Monday, there were 45 Filipinos, who are to be released from quarantine today.

The Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association are advised by their agents in the Philippines that together with the people who arrived on the Korea, there are, all told, 712 Filipino laborers on their way to Honolulu on the following named ships:

On the Manchuria, due here on Aug. 20, there are 117; on the Chiyo Maru, due here on Aug. 27, there are 400.

The Association is further advised that the Immigration is well established, and the indications are that regular shipments will be despatched by each Pacific Mail steamer.

This pass is decisive evidence that the Japanese strikers are organized with military precision and that a military espionage is kept over them. Although it has been denied in court that the men were formed into anything representing companies, although Nogoro yesterday denied any acquaintance with the system and was perfectly unconscious of any such unusual arrangement the pass is made out in the name of a "private" of one of the companies of twenty and signed by the "luna" of his "company." It is addressed to the "Officer in Charge" at Alia.

It was made out to merely enable a man to go and get his clothes from the plantation and his address was noted. It is stamped with the "seal" of the Alia Higher Wage Association.

HALT DEPORTATION ORDER BY PETITION

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was filed today to have three Chinese boys released from the custody of the immigration authorities, who have ordered them deported. The boys are Hoo Chan, Hoo Dung and Hoo Sang and all claim to have been born here but to have left the islands after the fire in 1900. Their father, Hoo San Kwai and their mother Kam Shee are both living in China and the papers are gotten out in the name of their uncle, Koon Yan Tim. W. W. Thayer is acting as their attorney. The authorities say that the claim is not bona fide.

$60,000 Light Is To Shine

The Makapuu Point light station, which has cost the Government about $60,000, is practically completed, and Major Winslow left today to make a final inspection of the light.

The quartermaster's department has just received the two big incandescent oil vapor lamps, one for the new Makapuu Point light house, and the other for Diamond Head. These are powerful lamps, and are equipped with the latest mechanical devices.

The work of erecting the new lamp will be completed today and the light will be tested today and tonight. Ships at sea can locate these new lights for many miles, even in a fog, and they are a valuable addition to the fortifications here, making it possible to discern approaching vessels in the middle radius of light thrown out to sea. Major Winslow and his men have worked hard on the new station, and they are a great credit to his efforts.

BAND CONCERT AT MOANA HOTEL TONIGHT

The Royal Hawaiian band will give a concert, beginning at 8 o'clock, at the Moana hotel tonight. The Moana with its beautiful grounds and broad lawns, is particularly popular with townspeople and tourists alike for an evening of music and a large crowd is expected.

The prosecuting attorney asked the witness directly whether he had seen articles in the Jiji advising temperance or moderation and Lightfoot seeing the hole that the defendants would get into by its answer promptly objected.

REES UPHELD IN DISCIPLINE

There has been a slight explosion at the Naval Station and some one appears to have been scorched by the flareback. The Commandant very courteously but firmly declined to discuss matters of internal administration and discipline with representatives of the press, but discoursed cheerfully about the weather and the other strike outside his jurisdiction.

It was subsequently learned, however, from well-informed sources that an officer of the station has recently been under suspension for conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline of the service, in making an unwarranted report against the Commandant, which the Navy Department did not substantiate by the facts in the case.

In the early part of June, according to a report of the affair that reached the Bulletin from Washington, Commandant Rees requested Lieutenant Commander Stanford E. Moses, of the U. S. S. Iroquois to put the vessel in sailing shape, as he desired to use her to make a trip to Pearl Harbor on June 18. A boiler maker was transferred from another ship to make needed repairs to the Iroquois, and on June 14 Moses reported the ship ready for sailing. A few days later the Lieutenant Commander reported that further work would have to be done on the boilers, and that the Iroquois would not be in shape to sail on June 18.

Captain Rees then requested that the boiler maker come to see him. It is understood Commander Moses insisted on being present at the interview, terming it an "investigation." Captain Rees did not consider the matter an investigation at all, but merely wished to talk over the condition of the vessel with the boiler maker and find out what kind of mechanic he was.

However, when the boiler maker reported to the Commandant Commander Moses, it is said, accompanied him and insisted on being a party to the interview. Captain Rees then reprimanded Moses for conduct in becoming an officer of his rank, some words followed, and the young Commander proceeded to make a report on Rees to Washington.

In this report Moses charges Commandant Rees with "conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline," and detailed the affair from his standpoint. An investigation followed and many unpleasant facts were brought out which are now causing a stir in naval circles.

After due consideration, the Secretary of the Navy has issued an order, upholding Commander Rees, and giving him full and unrestricted authority to discipline Lieutenant Commander Moses as he thought most effective.

While it remained within the power of Captain Rees to court-martial Moses, or recommend his dismissal from the service, the Commandant did not feel the case justified such extreme means, and suspended the young officer for five days. What the ultimate outcome will be it is difficult to say, but it is likely that Moses will be transferred later to some other post.

Captain Rees has been one of the most popular naval officers ever stationed here, and so far as can be learned he has always gotten along harmoniously with the other officers and the men, and is greatly liked by them. Commander Moses is a young man, married and has always had the esteem of many of his fellow officers. The affair comes as a great surprise to those who could not realize that there was any feeling on his part against Captain Rees.

It has been learned as the result of this investigation that as far back as six months ago, Moses has made things unpleasant for Captain Rees, and the Commandant has had to reprimand him, and so far as can be Charged with conduct to the prejudice of good order and discipline of the service in making an unwarranted report to Washington on Captain Rees, Commandant of the Naval Station in Hawaii, Lieutenant Commander Stanford E. Moses, of the U. S. S. Iroquois, has been suspended on authority from the Secretary of the Navy, for five days. The affair is the result of alleged official disobedience on the part of Moses, and has caused a profound sensation in naval and military circles. Captain Rees refused to be interviewed when shown the press dispatches from Washington.
